

SATRO Research Work Placements

SATRO's Research Work Placement programme has been running since 1999, connecting Year 12 A-Level and BTEC students with companies and research organisations. Students undertake a 2–3 week research project between early July and 21st August.

The programme benefits students who gain valuable real-world experience, while organisations receive fresh perspectives and meaningful contributions to their chosen research topic.

Your Role

To provide a research project title, guide student(s) in their research and give feedback on their final work. We would like you to offer the students the opportunity to visit your place of work during the project if possible.

Students

Students will work with you virtually to prepare a research project based on a topic of interest. We ask you to meet them virtually at the launch, at least twice during the programme and also at the final presentation.

Projects

Projects will be in the form of a report, video, poster, presentation or combination. The students will present to you and your colleagues in a format that reflects your industry norms. Students can work individually or as a team.

SATRO Support

SATRO's support will include attending the launch and presentation, providing guidance to the students, organising virtual interviews. At the end we host a celebration event for everyone to showcase their work.

Benefits To You

Volunteering with the next generation of STEAM employees, engaging with students from your local community, sharing your expertise and passion for a subject, promoting your industry and building work mentoring skills.
